Chapter 1

I woke with a yawn, my pure white coat seemed so different to my sister Aprils coat. Aprils fur had grey through it, i stood out among all the wolves. I woke my sister, she perked her ears but her eyes stayed closed.
"Come on April I wanna go play," I said, she lifted her head.
"Come on May can't I get any sleep around here," April said her eyes now open, I bounced out of the den to see my father. He was ordering the other she-wolves and males around, he saw us and bounded over.
"I see my little princess's are awake," he said nuzzling both of us, we giggled.
"Hi daddy," April said, he gave us one more nuzzle before the beta came over.
"Sir we found scents of stranger wolves on our territory," he said.
"Let's go before they can steal our food, I will be back my pups," he said walking off, we started to play about when our mother came over.
"April, May inside before you catch a cold, you know how cold it gets in winter," she said, we ran into the nursery and continued our game. When we finished our game we were tired, we lay down curled around each other and fell asleep.

Hey guys I hope you like the start of this new book.

Chapter 3

Guys I know it's only chapter 2 but I am doing a year time skip, April and May are 1 year old.

I woke to a loud bang, I peeked out of the cave to see humans. They had shot my mother, my father ran in.
"Come one quickly, we have to go," he said, we followed him away from the den site. More bangs sounded behinds us as we ran for our lives, a human was chasing us his gun steady. The human shot as us and hit our father, we had no time to grief and we ran hidden by the falling snow. We didn't stop to look back, we didn't even stop to rest. When the snow started to clear off we were so far away from our home, we saw a sign that said "Hunting reserve keep tame animals off during spring and summer" I was confused at first.
"May let's rest in that cave over there for the night," April said, I nodded and we headed over to the cave. We entered the cave cold and our fur covered in snow, we lay down and fell asleep.

Guys I know these chapters have the dramas happen too soon but I kinda have no ideas.

Chapter 4

I woke up to a heavy blizzard, I shook the stray snowflakes from my pelt and stood. My sister was still asleep, I peered into the snow to try to see anything but the blizzard blocked my view.
"May it's no use trying to go out," April said from where she was laying down, I growled. We had lost our father the day before, I was still very sad. April came and sat at my side, she put her muzzle on my shoulder.
"We will be fine I will protect us," April said, I sighed.
"Your right we will be fine," I said, I went further into the den.

A few hours later.

We had waited out the blizzard, the snow had stopped. I slowly padded out into the white wasteland, April followed. A howl sounded from the distance, the howl was not familiar so we stayed quiet. We started back towards our home, we got there to find no bodies not even a footprint. I snarled as a grey male wolf stepped out of the bushes, he came up to us as if we were part of his pack. I snapped at him a few times, he ended up making both of us obey him. His pack came out of the bushes, I snarled at them but got a swift nip in return from the alpha.
"What are two females like you doing away from a pack?" The alpha asked.
"Our pack was killed," I growled.
"That's sad but now you belong to me got it," he said showing his teeth.
"Got it," I growled, he nudged us away from our home. We traveled over a mountain and into a strange new territory, I knew that in spring he would try to mate with us. I knew we had to escape before that happened, I nuzzled Aprils shoulder and she came closer.
"We have to escape," I whispered low enough to not get heard.
"We do and I know the perfect way," April said, we soon arrived at the new den site. The alpha growled at us to go closer, we stalked forwards into the strange place. I saw blood covering certain walls, bones scattered everywhere. I yelped as a sharp teeth bit the back of my neck, I found myself across the cave. My sister was whining on the opposite side, the alpha stalked over.

"It's time to teach these two a lesson if they try to escape they will learn it again," he said, he dug his teeth deep into the back of my neck. I yelped as I felt blood run down my cheek, he slammed me against a wall. He then slammed me down on the ground and held me there, I yelped and yelped. I was forced to watch the same thing happen to my sister, I knew we had to escape no matter how long it took us.

Hey guys hope you like the chapter also I have a little comp for you, try to guess the alpha males name. I will post a picture of him instead of a chapter then I will write a chapter.

Help me name him

Hey guys I want you guys to help me come up with the alpha males name, post the name in the comments.

Chapter 5

I woke up the next morning, my legs were stiff from the cold. I saw my sister across the cave, I went to get up but noticed the alpha had made a few wolves guard us through the night. I stood up and one of them looked at me, i saw the alpha coming towards me. He growled at me and I put my head lower then his in hopes of not getting bitten, he stopped growling.
"Good female now your sister will wake shortly and when she does we are all going hunting, if you prove yourself to me you will not have many more scars," he said, I whined as he sharply bit my neck. He dragged me over to my sister, I yelped as he bit harder and my sister woke up.
"Good now your awake let's go hunting before I kill one of you," he said, we all followed him to his hunting grounds.we somehow managed to end up at the back of the pack. I nudged my sister, she looked at me.
"Quickly while they are distracted run for those trees," I said pointing my muzzle to a large Thick clump of trees, she nodded. We slowed our pace to a slow walk, when they got far enough ahead we ran. We ran as fast as we could towards the thick forest, I could hear my heart pumping and it felt as though it were going to burst. I could hear the pack running after us, I made sure April was in front of my so I could see where she was. We kept running until the sounds of the pack faded, my eyes widened as I saw another pack up ahead. We tried to stop but slipped and rolled, I rolled into what seemed to be the alpha male. I got off him and helped him up, I put my head down embarrassed.
"I am so sorry," I said, April hid behind me.
"It's ok but why are you going so fast?" He asked, I looked behind us and saw the pack coming. Me and April hid behind the alpha and his pack, when the other pack got near us they were exhausted.
"What are you doing with my females," growled the grey alpha, I snarled at him.
"We are not yours you stupid mutt you forced us to come with you after that you beat us up," I snarled, the brown alpha (the new one guys) started snarling at the grey one.

"I believe the females over you you angry old grump," he said, I nodded at him in thanks.
"Fine keep them but expect me to challenge you for them in spring," the grey alpha said, he ran off his pack following. We followed the new pack towards their den, we were worried he too would attack us but he just said nothing.

Chapter 6

After a good night sleep I woke to notice something different, the alpha was across the clearing talking to what I thought tone the alpha female. I shook my fur to get rid of stray pieces of grass, I nudged my sister to wake her.
"What is it?" April asked.
"The pack seems to ignore or stare at us and I don't feel comfortable," I said, some of the pack stared at us as if we were enemies.
"They do yes but what can we do about it?" April asked, she growled at the wolves.
"I am going to talk to the alpha," I said, I padded over to the alpha.
"Can I help you?" He asked.
"Well I just wanted to say me and my sister must get going, we have grown use to being lone wolves and we are not used to getting stared at," I said, he nodded.
"If that is what you wish I wish you safe travels," he said, I nodded and padded over to my sister.
"Let's go," I said, she got up and we started to go onwards towards the hills.

Hey guys where do you think the band of rouges live, would they live in the mountains, or the open plains, or the thick woods, or maybe even in a secret valley.

Chapter 7

I poked my head out of the trees to find an open valley, I also noticed a farm up ahead with a few sheep. My stomach growled with hunger, I noticed so was my sisters.
"Let's go get ourselves a meal," I said, we stalked closer and noticed the place was run down and looked abandoned.
"Sis we might be going into a trap," April said.
"I will go scout ahead to make sure it's safe," I said, I stalked around the flock of sheep and towards the broken building. I pushed open the creaky door, I heard voices inside.
"What if other packs try to steal our food," growled a voice.
"Yeah we have to defend it sooner or later," another said.
"Well tough we have to move before winter or the packs will surly kill us and take our food," growl what I thought to be the leader, I accidentally pushed the door too far and it flew open.
"Hey guys looks like we have a thief," growled a jet black female, I started backing away.
"She might be a rouge," the leader said, I looked back towards my sister and she ran over.
"You sure," the female growled again.
"Heather shut it," the leader male said.
"M-me and my sister are loners since hunters killed our pack," I said, the lead male showed sympathy.
"If you want you can join us, we have plenty of food to go around," he said, I nodded.
"Oh excuse us my name is May and this is my sister April," I said.
"My name is Duke, this is Heather, this is Leo and this is Mia," the lead male said pointing to the black female then the white male then the grey female, I nodded.
"It's nice to meet you all," I said.
"Please come in and rest," Duke said moving aside, me and April padded in nervously.
"I can't thank you enough," I said, I looked around the open broken space.
"It's my pleasure," Duke said.
"Oh come on Duke you can't think of letting wolves into our small pack," Heather said, I looked at her. Only now did I notice all of them were dogs, Duke was a German Shepard, Heather was a husky, Leo was a white Labrador and Mia was a Wolf mixed with a dog. It felt odd to be the only wolf besides my sister, I layed down on a patch of overgrown moss. I yawned, May layed down beside me.

"Let's give these two some space to sleep," Duke said, they left to go to a different room. I put my head down and let sleep come, slowly sleep came over me.
